EVV and the Children's Museum of Evansville partner up to provide an updated play area for young passengers and visitors to the airport.

EVANSVILLE, IN – May 31, 2009 The Evansville-Vanderburgh Airport Authority District announced today that the airport and the Children's Museum of Evansville have partnered together to remodel the existing children's play area. The current play center has been moved while the renovations are being done.

Passengers can expect to see brighter colors and interesting wall décor. Each wall will include an interactive display similar to what one can find at the museum's downtown location. There will also be puzzles, building blocks and other toys available for young passengers and visitors to the airport. Marketing Manager for the airport, Dianna Kissel explained, "It's a great way to highlight one of the better attractions in our community to area visitors as well as being a fun place to hang out while waiting for a flight."

The work should be completed in mid July.
